

String of poll victories has made Chauhan 'humbler'

Wants opposition to shun negative politics

• OUR STAFF REPORTER
BHOPAL

Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chauhan has said that the BJP's victory in the recent Panchayat elections had made him humbler.

He said that he was happy that the party has received the wholehearted support and cooperation of people from all sections of society in Madhya Pradesh and has got an opportunity to serve all sections of society without any discrimination.

Writing on a blog, he said that his only dream was to see Madhya Pradesh become the most developed, prosperous, educated and healthy state of the country. "It is our hard work in last 10-11 years in this direction that has earned us the blessings of people in election after election. Last year, first they voted us to power in the state, then extended unstinted support in the Lok Sabha elections and in recent past they gave us the mandate in urban body and Panchayat elections", he said.

Chauhan said, "The success has not gone to our heads. We would deliver on the promises made to the people with total commitment and sincerity. We would live up to our commitment to transforming the rural as well as urban areas"

He also had a word of advice for the opposition. "All those thinking in the interest of democracy including myself wish the opposition to introspect and by removing its weaknesses and eschewing negative politics play a constructive role in the larger interest of people and the state.", he said.